

The ABC's of building a better automatic coffee vending operation

Apppearance. Careful craftsmanship on the outside of the machine is an important quality checkpoint. Look for richly textured vinyl wood grain fronts. Exciting colors. Attractive insets. Exteriors that can stand alone as well as blend with—or precisely match—virtually any bank of machines from any manufacturer.

Brewing capability. Here's where the end product will be determined—and your profits made or lost. Be sure the machine has a self-contained brewer. An inexpensive open cylinder disposable coffee filter. A simple to operate, no-pressure, no-pump, no-problem gravity feed open water system. Want proof positive of brewing excellence? See if the machine rates the Pan American Coffee Bureau's "Seal of Approval" award.

Components. For years of dependable service, you want components as rugged as they are efficient. Look for flat, easily cleanable interior surfaces. Concealed wiring and terminals. Strong, ribbed box girder construction. 16 gauge steel doors and back panels. Plus extras like in-line cup dispensers, easy adjust cams, a swing-out coffee hopper. And—for guaranteed long-range protection—U.L. approval on every machine in the manufacturer's entire line.

A better vending operation is automatically yours when you select RMI. Because RMI Single-Cuppers give you all the features you want; all the features you need. And that makes building bigger profits as easy as ABC.
